

Recovering towards potential

Suominen reports Q2 results on Aug 9. We expect meaningful signs of earnings recovery as raw materials prices have mostly normalized and higher US volumes begin to come through.

Q2 results to improve, but recovery continues in H2 as well
 Suominen's Q1 volumes developed flat largely as expected; the US inventory levels have to some extent begun to melt, but delivery volumes were not nearly yet at the levels where Suominen would have been able to achieve decent earnings. Q1 EBITDA therefore remained a very modest EUR 2.6m. Raw materials prices have been on a declining trend for a year now, which we believe will help Q2 profitability improve even if volumes are still somewhat lacking. We estimate Q2 revenue to have grown 3% y/y to EUR 121m, thanks to incremental volume recovery in the US, while we see EBITDA at EUR 6.3m.

Raw materials prices seem to have already normalized

Recent double-digit q/q declines in pulp prices support margins at least in Q2 and Q3, however nonwovens prices will also follow down with a lag. We hence believe Suominen's margins to gain markedly over the course of this summer, and any further earnings gains after that are more likely to be driven by higher US volumes. Oil-based raw materials like polyester and polypropylene declined steeply already in H2'22 and hence their price development has been more stable this year. We believe the raw materials price correction has now mostly materialized, which should let Suominen focus on volumes and new products' sales. We estimate Suominen's FY '23 gross margin to remain at a rather low level of some 8% yet see the quarterly margin improving to above 10% by the year's end. Suominen currently guides increasing EBITDA for the year, and an upgrade wouldn't be that surprising should it arrive at some point this year.

Valuation reflects expectations about H2 recovery

Suominen's FY '23 earnings multiples remain elevated as H1'23 results stay soft, but we estimate H2 improvement to deliver some 9% EBITDA and 5% EBIT margins and hence FY '24 should see earnings above such levels. Suominen is now valued 15x EV/EBIT on our FY '23 estimates, however we expect the multiple to decline to around 6x next year. We continue to view valuation neutral. We retain our EUR 2.7 TP and HOLD rating.

COMPANY DESCRIPTION: Suominen manufactures nonwovens for global consumer brands on eight production plants located on three continents. The company sources the raw materials from fiber producers and sells the output as roll goods to global consumer brand manufacturers. Suominen's nonwovens are mainly used in wiping products such as wet wipes for baby care, personal hygiene, and household and workplace wiping. Other end-uses include hygiene and medical applications such as sanitary pads, diapers, and surgical drapes and swabs.

INVESTMENT CASE: Suominen's recent challenges with nonwovens' gross margins and delivery volumes are no longer present. In our view the demand outlook for household wiping products is especially strong. Suominen also seems to be making good progress with sustainable wiping products, meaning the company is increasingly able to replace synthetic raw materials with wood-based fibers. Although supply will no doubt grow in the long-term, the surge in wiping demand has nevertheless turned the current supply-demand balance much more favorable also from a nonwovens manufacturer's point of view. We view Suominen's long-term financial targets realistic.
